

Annual Report 2020

GRI content index

Stora Enso's Sustainability 2020 is prepared in accordance with the GRI Sustainability Reporting Standards (GRI Standards).

Our reporting is prepared in accordance with the GRI Standards: Core option. This means that our reporting covers all the General Disclosures, as well as the Topic-specific Standards we deem material. In this online GRI Content Index, we list our disclosures with reference to the GRI Standards, and refer to the locations (supported by URL links) where these issues are addressed in our annual reporting. The location references are complemented in the index with additional information, such as explanations on reasons for omission as necessary.

Topic-specific data boundaries

Impacts that make sustainability topics relevant to us may occur outside Stora Enso, or they may only be material for some of our operations or locations. When our reporting on a sustainability disclosure only concerns specific units, geographical regions or other data collection boundaries, based on the identified materiality, this is specified in connection with the respective disclosure.

For more information on data boundaries, see Reporting scope in Sustainability 2020.

Management approach disclosures

The structure of Sustainability 2020 follows Stora Enso's sustainability agenda. In terms of the GRI Standards, the management approach to sustainability is described in the Strategy, governance, and stakeholders chapter. In addition, topic-specific chapters in the report describe the respective opportunities and challenges, while providing context on why the topic is material. Each topic-specific chapter additionally explains respective strategies and policies as well as respective processes, procedures and systems.

In addition to own employees, our units typically have contractor employees at the same production site. Annual maintenance also typically creates a peak in the number of contractor workers at our board, pulp, and paper mills for a short period. Many of our production units also have a systematic approach to employ students as interns for shorter periods, in particular in Finland and Sweden during the summer holiday season. We also rely on contractors in our forestry operations and China Packaging units. The number of contractor employees is not consolidated at the Group level.

301-1	Materials used by weight or volume	SR Materials, water, and energy (illustration: Efficient use of materials in circular bioeconomy, Progress: Materials). In our illustration Efficient use of materials in circular bioeconomy we report the key material inflows of which wood and purchased pulp, paper and Paper for Recycling (PfR) are renewable materials and pigments, fillers, starch, and other chemicals are largely non-renewable materials, with the exception of starch and bioplastics. PfR deliveries to our mills typically include a smaller share of non-paper or non-board components that are largely non-renewable materials such as plastics. These components are included in our total PfR deliveries. Utilisation rate for Paper for Recycling (PfR) is a percentage of total PfR use compared to the total board and paper production following this calculation principle by the Confederation of European Paper Industries (CEPI). Purchased paper for our corrugated packaging units may also include a small portion of non-renewable coating content. The packaging materials we produce and use to protect our pulp, paper, and paper board deliveries during their transportation mainly consist of our own recyclable fibre-based products. As an exception to this, plastic wrappings are currently used for packing certain solid wood products.

302-1	Energy consumption within the organisation	SR Materials, water, and energy (energy graphs and material use illustration), SR Carbon dioxide (Our science-based targets). In the fuel consumption pie chart, biomass corresponds to renewable energy. Majority of our heat consumption is consumed in the form of steam. The majority of our sold heat, typically reported as steam, was delivered to local district heating systems. Our mills use local factors based on analysis at the site when calculating the energy content of the used fuels. Energy figures for real estate facilities is deemed as not material.
302-4	Reduction of energy consumption	SR Materials, water, and energy (Progress; Energy)

303-3	Water withdrawal	SR Materials, water, and energy (Responsible water use; Water withdrawal and consumption). 92% of the water withdrawal in water stress areas was municipal water, 7% groundwater and 1% was surface water. All surface and groundwater in our water withdrawal is considered as freshwater. Group-wide analyses for Total Dissolved Solids is not available.
303-4	Water discharges	SR Materials, water, and energy (Responsible water use; Effluents to water; Table: Water withdrawal and consumption). All our water discharges are considered to be destinated to freshwater. Group-level data on water discharges by the type of destination or analyses for Total Dissolved Solids are not available.
303-5	Water consumption	SR Materials, water, and energy (Table: Water withdrawal and consumption). Our operations do not rely on significant water storages. The reported water consumption includes estimated water content in products, residuals and waste, and estimated volumes of evaporated water from industrial operations at our mills. The calculation of water consumption builds on the Confederation of European Paper Industries' (CEPI) method of describing water use and consumption, and Swedish Environmental Research Institute's (IVL) report on Water Profile for the Swedish forest industry.
